

Role: Python Developer (m/f/x)

Employment Type: Employee

Location: Berlin/Remote

About Sponsokit:

At Sponsokit, we make Influencer marketing smart, easy and effective. Sponsokit is the data-driven software that marketers use to manage their influencer marketing from A to Z and sponsor influencers efficiently.

We are looking for a self-motivated Python developer to join our team and play a major role in building the product.

You will play a key role in designing and implementing a completely new product that enables users to search through millions of creators and make data driven decisions.

Our ideal hire is someone who is motivated and wants to make an impact. Even if you don't meet 100% of the criteria but you believe in our company vision and want to be part of an open-minded and multicultural team, please apply.

Tasks

- Design a new product in the creators space that scales to millions of data points
- Work directly with our Product and Tech leads in converting user requirements into technical specifications
- Use the latest technology stack to code, deploy and review your work.
- Propose improvements to the core platform, tools and deployment processes
- Learn how to improve the user experience and become an expert in software development.

Requirements

- 3+ years of production experience in software development in Python
- Experience with building web APIs (REST Apis) and App backends
- Experience in container management such as Kubernetes, Docker and using cloud providers such as AWS or Google Cloud is a plus
- Bonus: Experience with datastores - Elasticsearch, Postgres, MongoDB
- Good written and spoken skills in English
- Team player with strong self motivation and willingness to learn

Benefits

- Work directly with the founding team and in a open environment with flat hierarchies
- Rapidly growing startup with huge potential for personal & career growth
- Remote friendly with flexible working hours
- Modern and state of the art technology stack
- Have a direct and visible impact on the growth and revenue of the company.
- An international team which will grow exponentially within the next few months.